DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-3 and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Onken et al (US 7,221,746 B1) in view of Petite (US 6,233,327 B1).

Art Unit: 2614

Regarding claims 1 and 5, Onken discloses a sensing device for monitoring conditions at a remote location which is read on an alert system for requesting service of a machine which requires servicing (column 1, lines 18-26) comprising:

- a sensor for detecting a machine event (column 5, lines 20-34);

- a transmitter for transmitting said voice messages over the public switched telephone network (column 8, lines 21-44).

Onken fails to disclose a recorder and a trigger.

However, Petite teaches a recorder storing one or more pre-recorded voice messages, said voice messages corresponding to machine event (column 7, lines 15-25);

- a trigger for transmitting said voice messages to a predetermined telephone number using said transmitter upon said sensor detecting a predetermined machine event (column 8, lines 14-35).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the invention of Onken using the general purpose transceiver as taught by Petite.

This modification of the invention enables the system to have a recorder and a trigger so that the user would receive the information signal.

Art Unit: 2614

Regarding claims 2 and 6, Onken discloses an alert system for requesting service of a machine wherein said transmitter leaves a voice-mail message with an answering system when transmitting said voice messages (column 7, lines 23-34).

Regarding claims 3 and 7, Onken discloses an alert system for requesting service of a machine further comprising a clock connected to said trigger, said trigger sending said voice messages corresponding to machine event at predetermined times of the day (column 7, lines 23-34).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 4 and 8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3 and 5-7 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Art Unit: 2614
